SESSUE HAYAKAWA in The White Man's Law
R. Paramount Pictures

JACK HOLT IS VERSATILE
Jack Holt, now in numerous Paramount pictures, is appearing in the heavy role of Sir Harry Fullhard, in "The White Man's Law," a new Paramount picture starring Sessue Hayakawa. Mr. Holt is equal to other leading roles or heavy parts. Being thus adaptable, he makes a most valuable member of the organization and can always be relied upon to do good work. Right with Hayakawa in a drama is one of the most thrilling scenes of "The White Man's Law," which is to be shown at MOORE'S THEATRE, next SATURDAY, DEC. 16.

PTT. TRAYNOR GIVES BLOOD TO SAVE COMRADE

Editor, Independent.

I write to inform you of the action of Pte. J. W. Traynor, No. 21044, formerly of B Coy., 2nd Battalion, Beamsville and who saw active service with the 15th Reserve Bn., at Willey Camp, Eng. A wound had been received by a comrade in the fighting around Cambrai last Sept. He was slightly hit in the leg and while undergoing treatment at the casualty clearing station, one of the doctors asked if someone would volunteer to give a pint of blood to save a wounded soldier of the 3rd Div. and Pte. Traynor volunteered and gave it as is now in camp in Eng. I know him personally and always found him a fine trustworthy lad and the specimen of what that famous Ulster Volunteer Div. is like, as he is Irish by birth. He has three brothers serving, besides himself, in Irish Regt., the oldest being killed and the other alike himself being wounded several times, but still carrying on.

By an old 9th Regt., R. F.

HERE'S A PICTURE WITH EVERYTHING YOU WANT IN A PHOTOPLAY

It is Called "Timel" and It is the Latest World-Picture.

Here's a picture with everything in it that you want to see in a photoplay.

Its title is "Timel."

It is the latest World-Picture, was filmed from a story by Fred Jackson the famous writer of many popular stories and novels. Kitty Gordon is the star. She is supported by Muriel Ostridge and Frank Mayo and a brilliant cast of film favorites. It is a modern story with an unusual theme. It will be shown at Moore's Theatre on Monday, Dec. 16.

"Timel" is filled with thrills, suspense, love, temptation, sincerity, friendship, passion, god men and bad men, and all-pervading mother love. It tells a story of a mother, who knows the world and who realizes that her daughter is much too sophisticated—that her daughter knows much too little about the world and the various types of men found in the world.

Go "Timel" introduces the daughters to the world with astonishing results. "Timel" is an absorbing photoplay and an immensely entertaining and interesting production. At Moore's Theatre, Monday, December 16.

CLAIMS ARISING OUT OF THE ILLEGAL METHODS OF WAR FARE SHOULD BE FILED AT ONCE

The Government has directed the preparation of a list of claims by Canadians arising out of the illegal methods of warfare by the enemies through the torpedoing of ships without warning, the aerial bombing of unfortified places, and commanding of requisitioning without compensation, destruction and similar illegal acts on land. The Canadian claims are largely limited to the front.

DEATH OF FRANCIS GIBSON, FOREMAN OF THE INDEPENDENT PLANT

It is our sad duty this week to announce the death of Mr. Francis Gibson, who for the past two years has been Foreman of THE INDEPENDENT Printing Plant, GRIMSBY.

The deceased was a young man of unusual promise and his death at the early age of 30 years came as a sad blow, not only to his immediate relatives but to his employer and fellow employees, and to a host of friends and companions in Beamsville, GRIMSBY and surrounding country.

Francis Gibson was the third son of Robert Gibson of Beamsville, and a nephew of the late Senator Gibson. He was born in Beamsville and lived there all his life. Two years ago he accepted the position of foreman in THE INDEPENDENT Office, GRIMSBY and held that post up to the time of his death.

He was ill just two weeks with influenza and pneumonia and died Sunday forenoon, Dec. 1st.

He is survived by his father, mother, three brothers and one sister.

The funeral took place on Tuesday afternoon to Mount Osborne Cemetery, Beamsville and was private.

J. H. DICKENSON, REEVE OF CLIFFORD DEAD

Taken sick while on his honeymoon, J. Herbert Dickenson, the well known member of the county council, died at the home of his father-in-law, H. F. Webb, early Friday morning, Nov. 29. He was taken ill at the King Edward Hotel, in Toronto, where he was staying. A physician was summoned, but his condition was not considered of a serious nature. He was able to reach Mr. Webb's home and was apparently quite well. Monday night he had another attack, which proved fatal. His death came as a great shock to all, especially his bride of nine days and his aged father and mother who have been in delicate health. Councillor Dickenson was born in Galtford on September 18, 1886. He attended public schools at village and later went to the Ontario Agricultural college at Guelph. Returning to Galtford, he entered upon his municipal career. He was elected reeve in 1912 and held that office ever since. He was a member of his township council for twelve years, and was elected warden of the County of Wentworth in 1916. During his career he served in many municipal offices. In 1915 he was chairman of the roads and bridges committee, the finance committee in 1916, the joint court house committee, in the same year and has been a member of the suburban area commission since 1917. During the past twelve months he was a member of the legislative committee, education committee and road-machinery committee. He contested South Wentworth in the Liberal interests at the last Dominion election. Mr. Dickenson was one of the most popular members of the county council, and was highly esteemed by all with whom he came in contact. He possessed a kindly disposition and an engaging personality, and always prominent in sporting affairs. He was loved by all the young folk of the county. He was an enthusiastic carver and "skip" on the Galtford tankard rink, and at one time his rink reached the finale in the Ontario competition.

Mr. Sylvester Hand first noticed the fire while he lay sick in bed, but he was so weak he could not make an effort to check it. It started in the chimney in his part of the building. Mrs. Hand tried to check the fire with water, but soon had to call for help. A partial fire alarm was rung but the bell rope broke and many citizens and some of the firemen knew nothing of the fire till it was all over.

On account of the nature of the building it was almost impossible to get at the fire, so that although the fire made slow headway the firemen were forced to put tons of water on the building before the fire was extinguished.

There were five tenants occupying the building: The G. W. V. A. Club Room, upstairs; James F. Bird, Chas. Hall, Sylvester Hand and the Chinese Laundry, downstairs. All the tenants got their goods moved out pretty well, but the damage done by the water was considerable. The Club lost their pool tables, as they were too heavy to move. Mr. Hand and family were given shelter in the Hotel GRIMSBY. They were all sick. Mr. and Mrs. Hall moved over Miller's Jewellery Store. Mr. Hall was sick. Jan. 7. Bird moved back into his old store across the street. The Club fled to the "B" Squadron barracks across the street and John Chinaman moved to a vacant house which he has rented for the past number of years.

THE WHITE STAR LINE LOST TEN STEAMSHIPS DURING THE WAR

New York, Nov. 20.—Ten large steamships aggregating 180,000 gross tons were lost by the White Star Line during the war, it was learned here Saturday. Among these was the Britannic, 45,150 gross tons, torpedoed in the Argus sea in 1916 shortly after her completion, while in British Government service as a hospital ship.

Other large White Star liners lost 2000 tons, the Justicia, 17,274 tons; Laurentic, 14,293; Cymric, 12,375; Afric, 11,395; Georgia, 10,077; Civic, 1,301; Delphic, 1,318.

War losses of the Atlantic Transport Line were the ships, totaling 61,977 tons, of the Red Star Line, one ship, the Coachland, 11,570 tons.

CARD OF THANKS

Mr. and Mrs. Sydner Hand desire to thank the kind friends who rendered them prompt assistance and shelter at the time of the fire in their home on Sunday morning.

DEATH OF A. E. HENRY

Mr. Alfred Ross Henry, a life-long citizen of GRIMSBY Village and Township and a business man in GRIMSBY for twenty-five years passed away at the home of his son-in-law, W. W. Kidd, on Thursday, Nov. 21st, 1918, in his seventieth year. Although the deceased gentleman had been in poor health for several years on account of the loss of his sight, he was able to live out up till within a few days of his death. About three days previous to his death he was attacked by the Spanish influenza with fatal results.

A. E. Henry was born in GRIMSBY Township and was a son of the late Joseph Henry. For many years he was foreman in the mould shop of the John H. Great & Co. Agricultural Works, GRIMSBY, not over twenty-five years ago he bought out the butcher business of W. Walter and carried on this business until failing health caused his retirement a few years ago.

Decedent is survived by one daughter, Mrs. W. W. Kidd, two brothers, Joseph of Rochester and Charles of Detroit, and one sister, Mrs. W. H. Farrell, GRIMSBY.

The funeral took place to Queen's Lawn Cemetery on Saturday, Nov. 23rd, and he was buried with Masonic honours. The Rev. Mr. McCallum held service at the home and graveside.

Keep Your Paper FOR THE RED CROSS

The GRIMSBY Women's Institutes are still anxious to get paper to be sold for the benefit of their Red Cross work. All parties who have old papers or magazines or old robes should keep them for this purpose. Fold your paper about a foot square and stack them one on top of the other until you have a bundle about a foot deep, then tie it up with good strong string, one that will not break easily. Keep your magazines separately and tie them up in bundles with strong cord. When you have a sufficient number bring them to the paper building on the east side of the Independent Block GRIMSBY.

Those who cannot deliver the paper themselves to the building, should notify the Independent Office and an automobile will call for the paper.

Periodical collections will be made in the Village, but the parties, who make collections, are busy now and all papers should be tied up in bundles, so that they can be put into an automobile quickly, as so as to save time. Parties in the township, who have no way of delivering the paper themselves should make arrangements with some neighbor to bring them to the 1 per hour bus on his day or in his auto mobile.

The Salvation Army from Hamilton has been gathering paper in GRIMSBY and district, but as this organization has no tabernacle in GRIMSBY, the GRIMSBY people should keep their paper for their local Red Cross benefit. If a thousand families save all the paper, they will soon make a car load.

Do not roll the paper into small rolls as they have to be unraveled before they go in the bales and this work costs almost as much as the paper is worth.

If these instructions are followed carefully the Red Cross can make some money out of waste paper.

THAT CHANGE IN WOMAN'S LIFE

Mrs. Gordon Tells How It
May be Passed in Safety and Comfort.

Present O.—"I was passing through the critical period of life, being forty-six years of age and had all the symptoms incident to that change—heat flashes, nervousness, and was in a general run down condition, so it was hard for me to do my work. Lydia E. Pilkham's Vegetable Compound was recommended to me as the best remedy for my trouble, which I surely proved to be. I feel better and stronger in every way since taking it, and the annoying symptoms have disappeared." — Mrs. M. Gordon, 525 Jefferson St., Fremont, Ohio.

Such amazing cures, as heat flashes, nervousness, backache, headache, irritability and "the blues," may be speedily overcome, and the system restored to normal conditions by this famous root and herb remedy Lydia E. Pilkham's Vegetable Compound.

If any complications present themselves write the Pilkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass., for suggestions how to overcome them. The result of forty years experience is at your service and your letter held in strict confidence.

BUY WATCHES TO GET OLD

Ingenious Scheme of Central
Empires to Increase Their Supply
Previous Metal.

It is an oddity of the world war that the jewelry trade is flourishing. The secret article in the Berlin scheme of depreciation of Germany gives an interesting view of this situation and also suggests a method by which the central empires undoubtedly have increased their gold supply—namely, the importation of gold jewelry to be melted into bullion.

In the course of the crisis provided by the European war we pass from one country to another, says the Berlin. The belligerent countries, one after another, have imposed measures forbidding the importation of luxuries and warlike. In spite of all these difficulties, the empires, particularly for gold watches of medium price, are received in increasing numbers by our watchmakers, while those for watches of high and low prices are few.

The jewelry trade has passed through a prosperous period, which is not yet over. In fact, it is at its height. Everything went well so long as there were no abuses, but the time came when jewelry, especially heavy gold chains without much workmanship, began to be exported to the Orient. High prices were paid for these articles. Gold (bars) in Switzerland is valued at about $750 a kilo (22 pounds) and in the Orient, or at Vienna, it is quoted at $2,400 per kilo. There is, therefore, a considerable margin which allows a large profit to our manufacturers and their agents, also to foreign merchants. These articles, however, are not all destined for Turkey. A great many of them find their way into the crafty empires.

When steps were taken to check this trade numerous orders for watches with cheap movements in heavy gold cases came flowing into the watchmaking centers. These orders were destined for Constantinople. The scheme was perfectly appraised, and government authorities took prompt measures to put a stop to the proceeding.

NOW BIG GUN WAS FOUND

French Artillery Officers Made Careful Measurements and the Result of the Matter Was Easy.

Careful measurements of two holes made by a single shell in passing through two awnings in a Paris factory enabled French artillery officers to locate the great German long-range gun by afeat of mathematics. The two awnings were several feet apart and the relation of one to the other gave perfect data on the course which the shell had taken as it approached the earth. After the apertures had been measured to the exactness of half an inch and the direction of the shell's fall exactly established, the earlier course of the shell became a problem in paper. By applying the laws governing the flight of projectiles, and allowing for the wind, the state of the atmosphere and other considerations, French artillery officers were able to follow back the course of the shell to the mouth of the canon in the forest of St. Gobain, after which it was speedily demolished by French artillery.

Wisdom of Daylight Saving.
Who ever thinks nowadays that the sun is an hour behind the clock? Who ever tells himself it "really is five o'clock" when it is six? We go presumably to bed when the clock tells us to; we arise by the same token; we eat, play and work by the Promethean instrument which, for war and common purposes, is stealing 60 golden minutes every day from the sun to benefit the human race. And nary a culture of any description is tearing at the clock's vitals for flitching the same.

Here and there is a little petty thievery such as the beginning of baseball games at 3:30 o'clock that need to begin at three o'clock; but the public is too busy with great work and at present with the races and golf, recreation to worry about that. In general, America is living by the clock as it should be, and the wisdom of the daylight savings law is a thousand times manifest.

Hanigan Saw Wood Ashes.

Inches of wood-burning and scarcity of chemical fertilizers are reported by Council of Towns of Turin to be turning attention in Italy to the saving and collection of wood ashes. Of the many constituents, the potash is of importance for fertilizing. The potash in wood ash averages 6 to 10 per cent, and the quantity per ton of wood ranges from one pound from spruce to 8.23 from oak and 8.4 from elm. A ton of hornbeam yields 10.62 pounds of potash in 24.73 of ash; fur-tree, 21.40 pounds of potash in 60.82 of ash.

"Why, yes, I do," said Mrs. Styron. "Just look on your calendar."

"Do you take exercise regularly?"

"Yes," replied Mr. Chapman, "I walk the old River three or four miles up and down a hill and repair a tire about once a week."

FUEL SUPPLY FREE

To Municipalities of the Province of Ontario

A view in the hardwood forest in the Algonquin Park

OWING to the seriousness of the fuel situation at the present time, the Government of Ontario would urge upon all the farmers or others who may have wood lots, to assist at this time by making provision for their fuel supply from such lots.

The Government would also draw the attention of the various Municipalities throughout the Province to the necessity of taking some Municipal action to secure fuel supply. To this end the Government has decided to issue to any Municipality in Ontario a permit to cut fire wood in Algonquin Park or from other Crown Lands free of charge. For particulars as to localities, conditions of cutting, etc., apply to or waiting with that aching nose, if you will take Zan-Buk—the great herbal salve cure. This balm, owing to its unique composition, is the very thing for severe and skin troubles that have resisted ordinary treatments.

Mrs. Herbert Cox, of Port McNicoll, Ontario, writes: "For nine years I suffered with an abscess on my face, which was both painful and disfiguring. I had the abscess lanced repeatedly, but it still remained. I also tried ordinary ointments, but without any permanent benefit. Finally the doctor told me I had a tumor on the bone, and would have to undergo an operation, which I did; but instead of improving, the wound only became worse. I was in despair when a friend got me to try Zan-Buk. I soon noticed a marked improvement. Zan-Buk seemed to get to the very root of the trouble, and in the end the abscess was entirely cured—not even leaving a scar. This was a year ago, and there has been no return of the trouble."

Zan-Buk is not a mere ointment, but a rich herbal balm. Unquestioned for eczema, scaly sores, rheumatic boils, bad legs, blood poisoning, ulcers, cuts, burns, sprains, acids and all skin injuries. $6.00, a box, $12.50, all druggists or Zan-Buk Co., Toronto. Send 1c stamp for postage on free trial box.

THAT NIGHT COUGH

Could anything be more trying or more exhausting? Peppa will end it! The Pine vapor breathed down the air passages when a Peppa is dissolved in the mouth relieves the irritation, soothes the inflamed place and stops the cough.

Mr. John Dousset of Little Current, Ont., says: "I was troubled with an irritating cough that kept me awake at nights. Nothing I took gave me relief until I used Peppa. This wonderful breathable remedy, however, has entirely rid me of the cough."

For asthma, bronchitis, laryngitis, sore throat and colds use Peppa. All dealers. 10c. box.

Farmers Must Not Buy Coal Without a Permit

Toronto, October 24, 1918.
T. W. Allen, Secy.,
Fuel Commission,
North Grimsby.

Dear Sirs:—

The question has frequently been brought to our attention as to the supply of anthracite coal to farmers.

We are using our best endeavors to procure coal for everyone in the Province, but it seems to us that the average farmer is in a much more fortunate position than the residents of cities, towns or villages, in that in case of emergency he is provided with some alternative means of obtaining fuel of some kind for heating purposes, whereas the residents of cities, towns or villages have to look to the coal dealer.

Such comment to your local dealer, which, of course, in your case will not be done until you are absolutely satisfied that he is unable to procure any other fuel.

Yours very truly,
R. HOWE SMITH,
Fuel Administrator for Ontario.
NOTE:—For any further information apply to Thomas W. Allen,
Fuel Commission, North
No farmer shall be supplied with anthracite coal until you leave Grimsby.

This is the above information is most important. The intelligent stockmen insist on maintaining healthy stock. Feed it well to distract mangers and feed passages more frequently. A light spraying monthly will suffice.

Practice proves that disinfection to sheep insurance and an investment yielding a high rate of interest. If Canadian farmers uniformly will but realize this, our animal disease and losses therefore would decrease 20 per cent. per annum.

Poultrymen in or near the corn belt will find it advantageous to use a larger proportion of corn in their poultry rations than has generally been recommended. In many cases it has been difficult or impossible to get bran or middlings and wheat is needed for human food. While the price of corn has been relatively high as compared with other feeds, it is usually available in most sections of the state, which gives it an advantage over the by-products of the milling industry.

At the time Experimental Station, boys receiving a ration composed of 47 percent corn and 13 percent meat scrap produced an average of 241 eggs in two years. The mortality during this period was 16 per cent. Similar hens receiving only 43 per cent. of corn, with wheat, oats, bran, middlings, oilseed and meat scrap, produced an average of only 20 eggs more per hen in two years. The mortality in this lot was 21 per cent.

While this indicates that corn may constitute a large part of the ration for laying hens, it should not be fed alone. Tea to 12 percent, or more, or corn feeding tanks used in connection with corn will make up for the deficiency of protein and ash in a ration composed only of corn. Oyster shells should be constantly accessible to laying hens.

Got a Cold?

People will give you relief! Simply dissolve a Papa tablet in your mouth. Your breath carries the medicinal Fluid Vapor, which is released, to all parts of the throat, nose and air passages where a liquid medicine could easily reach. ## BEDRIDDEN WITH RHEUMATISM

Felt That He Would Never Walk Again
"FRUIT-A-TIVES" Brought Relief.

MR. LORENZO LEDUC

S Ottawa St., Hull, P.Q.
"Fruit-a-tives" certainly a wonder.
For a year, I suffered with Rheumatism; being forced to stay in bed for five months. I tried all kinds of medicine but without getting better; and thought I would never be able to walk again.

"One day while lying in bed, I read about 'Fruit-a-tives' the great fruit medicine; and it seemed just what I needed, so I decided to try it.

The first box helped me, and I took the tablets regularly until every trace of the Rheumatism left me.

I have every confidence in 'Fruit-a-tives' and strongly recommend them to every sufferer from Rheumatism".

LORENZO LEDUC.

less corpse of his kill to one side and opened his arms, flung himself into his embrace.

It was Nat-ul, daughter of Taa—Nat-ul of the tribe of Na that dwelt beyond the barren ridge beside the restless sea—she threw her arms about her lord and master's neck and drew his mouth down to her lips.

It was Nat-ul of the first born who watched Na and the never wolfhound circle about the corpse of the dead Arat.

The cave man, moving in the savage steps of the death dance of his tribe, now bent half over, now leaping high in air, throwing his stone tipped spear aloft, chanted the weird victory song of a dead and buried age, while beside him his equally savage mate beat time with skin, white hands.

CHAPTER XL.

Happiness?

WHEN the dance was done Na halted before Nat-ul. The girl rose, facing him, and for a long minute the two stood in silence looking at one another. It was the first opportunity that either had had to study the features of the other since the strange miracle had separated them.

Na found that some subtle change had taken place in his Nat-ul.

It was she—of that there could be no doubt, but yet there was that about her which cast a spell of reverential fear over him. She was infinitely more and more wonderful than he ever had realized.

With the passing of the excitement of the battle and the dance the strange ecstasy which had held the girl in their power slowly away. The rhythm of the chanting of the savage black haired giant had touched some cord within her which awoke the long dormant instincts of the primordial.

For the time she had been carried back a hundred thousand years to the childhood of the human race. She had not known for those brief instants Victoria Custer or the twentieth century or its civilization, for they were yet a thousand centuries in the future.

But now once more she saw through the eyes of generations of culture and refinement. Before her was a primitive man.

In his eyes was the fire of a great love that would not be denied. About her was the wild, fierce forest and the cruel jungle, and behind all this, and beyond, her vision wandered to the world she had always known—the world of cities and homes and gentlefolk.

She saw her father and her mother and her friends. What would they say?

Again she let her eyes rest upon the man. It was with difficulty that she restrained a desire to throw herself upon his broad breast and weep out her doubts and fears close to the beating of his great heart and in the safety of those protecting arms.

But with the wish there rose again the question, "What would they say?" to hold her trembling and frightened from him.

The man saw something of the girl's trouble in her eyes, but he partially misinterpreted it, for he read fear of himself where there was principally self fear, and, because of what he had heard Curtis say, he thought that he was contemptuous, too, for primitive people are infinitely more sensitive than their more sophisticated brothers.

"You do not love me, Nat-ul?" he asked. "Have the strangers turned you against me? What one of them could have forced you the hand of our sun hunter?"

"No!" He tapped the two great tusks that hung from his chin cloth. "No! ever the mightiest of the beasts for Nat-ul—the hand is buried in the cave of Go-yet, now that I come to take you as my mate, I see fear in your eyes and something else which never was there before. What is it, Nat-ul? Have the strangers stolen your love from Na?"

The man spoke in a tongue so ancient that in all the world there lived no man who spoke or knew a word of it, but to Victoria Custer it was as intelligible as her own English, nor did it seem strange to her that she answered Na in his own language.

"My heart tells me that I am yours, Na," she said, "but my judgment and my training warn me against the step that my heart prompts. I love you, but I could not be happy to wander here naked through the jungle for the balance of my life, and if I go with you now, even for a day, I may never return to my people."

"Nor would you be happy in the life that I lead. It would stifle and kill you. I think I see now something of the miracle that has overwhelmed us. To you it has been but a few days since you left your Nat-ul to hunt down the ferocious Na, but in reality countless ages have rolled by.

"By some strange freak of fate you have remained unchanged during all those ages, until now you step forth from your long sleep as completed cave man of the stone age into the midst of the twentieth century, while I doubtless have been born and reborn a thousand times, merging from one incarnation to another until in this we are again united."

"And you, too, died and been born again during all these weary years no gap of ages would intervene between us now, and we should meet again upon a common footing, as do other people, and mate and die to be born again to a new waiting and a new life, with no inevitable death."

"Not you have died the laws of life and death—you have refused to die, and now that we meet again at last a hundred thousand years lie between us—an unbridgeable gulf across which I may not return and over which you may not come either than by the same route which I have followed—through death and a new life thereafter."

Such that the girl said was beyond Na's comprehension and the most of it without the sense of his primitive language, so that she had been forced to draw liberally upon her twentieth century French to fill in the gaps.

Yet the man had caught the love in a vague sort of way; at least that his Nat-ul was far removed from him because of a great lapse of time that had occurred while he slept in the cave of Go, and that through his own death alone could be open the gateway between them and claim her as his mate.

He placed the butt of his spear upon the ground, resting the stones tip against his breast.

"I go, Nat-ul," he said simply. "That I may return again as you would have me."

The girl and the man were so deeply and engrossed with their own tragedy that they did not note the fast approaching of Terbet, the wolfhound, or hear the ominous growls that rumbled from his savage throat as he looked toward the jungle behind them.

The searching party from the Gray-stripe ranch had come upon the Arab, whose tracks had come upon the Arab. The search had been conducted between the two parties.

The Arab, pressed from behind by the savage Wasiri warrior, had hurriedly run into the arms of the white and the Wasiri.

When Gray-stripe demanded that the white girl be turned over to him since the Arab snatched his breast and swore that there had been no white girl with them, but one of the slaves told a different story to a Wasiri, and when the whites found that Victoria had been stolen from the Arab and had been stolen from the Arab by one of the sheik's henchmen only a few hours before they hastened to search the jungle in search of her.

To facilitate their movements and ensure covering as wide a territory as possible each of the whites took a few Wasiri and, spreading out in a far flung skirmish line, beat the jungles in the direction toward which the sheik had told them Abu Mukarram had ridden.

But now once more she saw through the eyes of generations of culture and refinement. Before her was a primitive man.

In his eyes was the fire of a great love that would not be denied. About her was the wild, fierce forest and the cruel jungle, and behind all this, and beyond, her vision wandered to the world she had always known—the world of cities and homes and gentlefolk.

"No! ever the mightiest of the beasts for Nat-ul—the hand is buried in the cave of Go-yet, now that I come to take you as my mate, I see fear in your eyes and something else which never was there before. What is it, Nat-ul? Have the strangers stolen your love from Na?"

The man spoke in a tongue so ancient that in all the world there lived no man who spoke or knew a word of it, but to Victoria Custer it was as intelligible as her own English, nor did it seem strange to her that she answered Na in his own language.

"My heart tells me that I am yours, Na," she said, "but my judgment and my training warn me against the step that my heart prompts. I love you, but I could not be happy to wander here naked through the jungle for the balance of my life, and if I go with you now, even for a day, I may never return to my people."

"Nor would you be happy in the life that I lead. It would stifle and kill you. I think I see now something of the miracle that has overwhelmed us. To you it has been but a few days since you left your Nat-ul to hunt down the ferocious Na, but in reality countless ages have rolled by.

"By some strange freak of fate you have remained unchanged during all those ages, until now you step forth from your long sleep as completed cave man of the stone age into the midst of the twentieth century, while I doubtless have been born and reborn a thousand times, merging from one incarnation to another until in this we are again united."

"And you, too, died and been born again during all these weary years no gap of ages would intervene between us now, and we should meet again upon a common footing, as do other people, and mate and die to be born again to a new waiting and a new life, with no inevitable death."

"Not you have died the laws of life and death—you have refused to die, and now that we meet again at last a hundred thousand years lie between us—an unbridgeable gulf across which I may not return and over which you may not come either than by the same route which I have followed—through death and a new life thereafter."

Such that the girl said was beyond Na's comprehension and the most of it without the sense of his primitive language, so that she had been forced to draw liberally upon her twentieth century French to fill in the gaps.

Terbet, the wolfhound, came through the jungle, barking furiously at the sound of the girl's voice.

Terbet leaped over the tangled wall of vegetation and leaped over the girl's head, barking furiously at the sound of the girl's voice.

GROUND TABLE SCRAPS FOR CHICKEN FEED.

"This scrap and kitchen waste are best prepared for feeding by running them through an ordinary meat grinder," says W. H. Barker extension poultry husbandman, U. S. D. A. "After the material has been put through the grinder, it is usually required by feeding more green it well to mix it with some corn meal, bran, or other ground grain until the whole mass assumes a crumbly condition. All can be fed that the hens will eat up clean, and if any of the material is left after one-half or three-quarters of an hour it should be removed. If allowed to lie it may spoil, and would be very bad for the hens."
